

Image created using Copilot

Clark is a data scientist going through his day-to-day work. Clark hears about the emerging technology of Artificial Intelligence and how it may take his job in the future. He does not have a full understanding of what AI is and the possibilities it may have. He does research online about AI and how it can help him with his job. He no longer fears losing his job to AI software and then uses it to help with his efficiency.

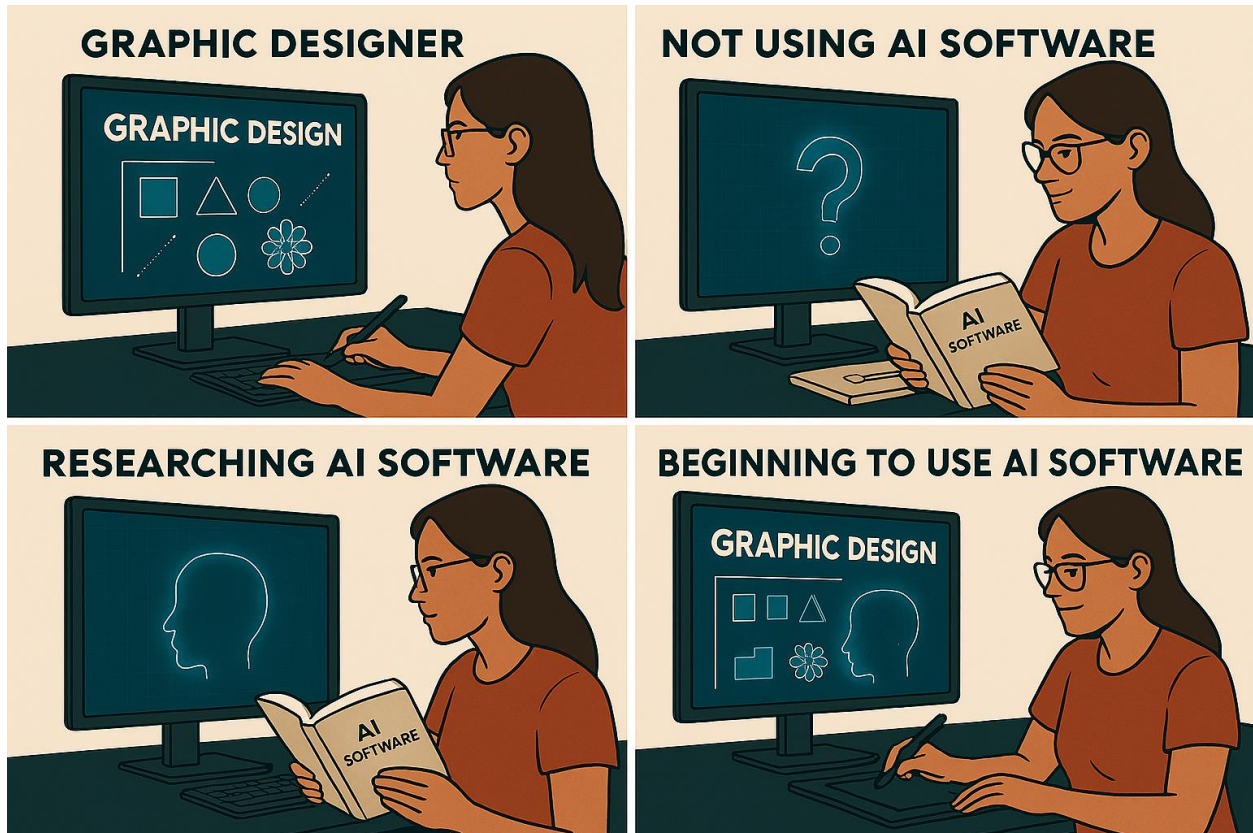

Image created using Copilot

Mary Jane is a Graphic designer who enjoys her craft. Using software, she learned in college to create designs for websites, apps, or any project she is given. Her job implements the use of AI software. Since being told to use it she goes to a website explaining the use of AI in other industries and how it has enhanced production and workflow.

Image Created using Copilot

Julie Smith is a legal advisor who has difficulty with organization. This leads to her missing deadlines and not responding quickly to clients. While searching online, she comes across a website explaining Artificial Intelligence software and its implementation. After educating herself with the website she begins to look for AI software that can help with organization to cut down on long hours and be able to schedule time to meet her clients.